Everyday Counselling Skills (2 days)

Structured tools to support others

This practical course explores counselling skills for those who find themselves in a counselling role, through their work or everyday life.

Participants will learn a series of structured, discussion-based tools which allow human services professionals to engage and support clients, and anyone to better support others.

Aboriginal Cultural Awareness

Working with Aboriginal people

Join Senior Noongar man and Aboriginal wellbeing specialist Wayne Coles for this insightful and participative workshop.

We explore key parts of Aboriginal culture and history and develop the foundation knowledge to better support Aboriginal communities and make our services more culturally appropriate.

Strength Based Performance Management

Getting the best from your team

Popular for its effectiveness and capacity to enhance relationships, strength-based practice is now used across diverse professions.

Where traditional management styles may focus on performance gaps and areas for improvement, strength-based approaches focus on building personal strengths and aptitudes.

Rethinking Cultural Inclusion

An immersive experience

This experiential program has a unique capacity to breathe life into previously abstract concepts and replicate aspects of intercultural challenges.

Participants will be immersed in a “galaxy” where they face new customs and beliefs. After exploring their own cultural heritage and traditions, they face negotiations with unknown alien cultures.
